

GBCI LEED v4 "Access to quality transit":

For Department of Defense (DoD) projects using USGBC LEED v4 as the sustainable Third Party Certification (TPC), and seek credits under "Access to quality transit", the following Project Type Variation applies:

For government projects with security restrictions (e.g., military), on-site mass transit can be used to document credit compliance. Transit service outside secured entrances may contribute to credit compliance, provided it is within the required walking distance (based on mode type) of a stop along the on-site mass transit service.

The project teams can use the special circumstances section of the LEED project form to point out the Project Type Variation that they are working with...and then share how they are meeting the credit requirements as amended by the Project Type Variation.
